Cecilian Alumni Jaanshi Ahuja, Entrepreneur motivates students to achieve pathway to success.
Excellence is an art won by habituation and training.
Class XI-XII

St Cecilia's Public School welcomed alumni Jaanshi Ahuja(2011 Batch), a worthy Entrepreneur back on the school campus to address a session for Science Stream students of Class XII and XI on the topic – "Classroom to Boardroom: The Journey of a Young Entrepreneur."

The interactive workshop threw light on the tools and resources to begin a career in the field of architect and concentrated on meaningful concepts that are necessary to help students understand their planning for accomplishing their goals. The alumni Jaanshi Ahuja an entrepreneur also addressed the students about what employers are looking for? What jobs might be the right fit for them? How to prepare to interview and tips on how to finance their education? The students were also apprised about social media do's and don'ts and articulation of their unique skills and competencies.

The session also included an introduction to the new industry of architectural professionals to expand the students knowledge of jobs in their chosen field and to provide potential mentors to help guide them. The students were provided an insight, exposure and access to information to help accomplish their dreams.

Madam Principal extended her blessings to the alumni for carrying forward the school legacy. She also encouraged the students to be inspired from the success stories of their seniors.

It was indeed overwhelming and praiseworthy to witness Cecilians forwarding as young global achievers.
